

Biography

Art Drake is currently the Vice President of Learning in the Global Value Management Office at AIG, responsible for development organizational competencies in the areas of portfolio, program and project management across AIG. In his current role, Art has developed several models for measuring the performance of programs and portfolios, leading to improved training and mentoring for program and project managers. Prior to coming to AIG, Mr. Drake was the Director of the Program Management Office and Business Analysis & Strategy Group for EmblemHealth of New York. Art is currently one of the Founding Directors of the Enterprise Management Association - International (EMA-I). EMA-I is focused on advancing change management competencies for teams and organizations. Art is also the former Executive Chair of the Program Management Office Specific Interest Group (PMO SIG), a PMI © component.